PLANNING FOR YOUR Remodel

Our expert design team will create a functional & beautiful kitchen design catered to your exact needs. But what are they? To create a design plan for your remodel, we need to first determine the goal for your kitchen remodel. Here are a few questions to consider when planning to meet with your designer:

1. What is my goal for this kitchen remodel?
   (Update to sell, planning for future needs, etc.)
2. Do I want to keep the existing kitchen layout?
3. What is my project scope? Common items include:
   - Removing/changing walls or windows
   - New vs. existing appliances
   - Plumbing & electrical updates
   - Flooring replacement
4. What is my preferred budget?
   (As a general guideline, use 5-15% of your home's value)
5. Do I need a contractor?
   (Choose your own contractor or have Norfolk do the work!
   (services may vary))

MAXIMIZING EFFICIENCY IN YOUR NEW KITCHEN

To maximize the efficiency of your new kitchen, consider the function of each area, or “zone”. Properly zoned kitchen designs can simplify your daily meal preparation & clean up tasks, and keep your new kitchen from appearing cluttered and disorganized.

Food Storage - It's important to have enough cabinet space dedicated solely to food storage.

Tableware Storage - Plates, glasses, utensils & linens all need a home somewhere.

Prep Zone - Where do you always prepare your meals? This is known as your power spot. Do you have enough space?

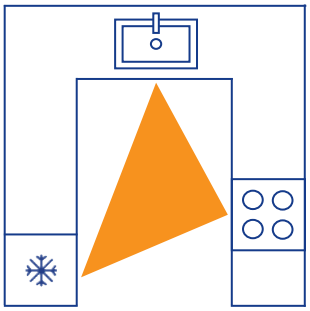

Cleaning Zone - Dishwasher, sink and trash/recycling should all be close by for quick & easy cleanup.

Cooking Zone - Where all the magic happens. Ideally, your pots & pans, oils, & spices should be within reach.

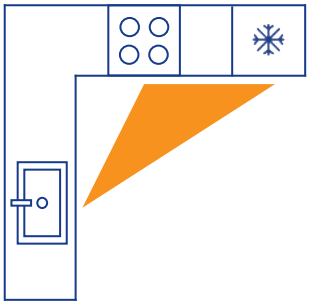

Other Zones - Do you need a space for entertaining, or homework? Do you need a dining area?

CREATING YOUR WORK TRIANGLE

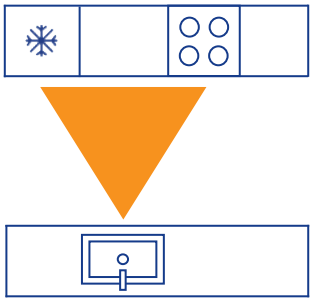

Your designer will work with you to create a kitchen that flows, starting with a proper work triangle. Work triangles make cooking less work - each piece is no more than 4-9 feet away from the others.

L-Shaped

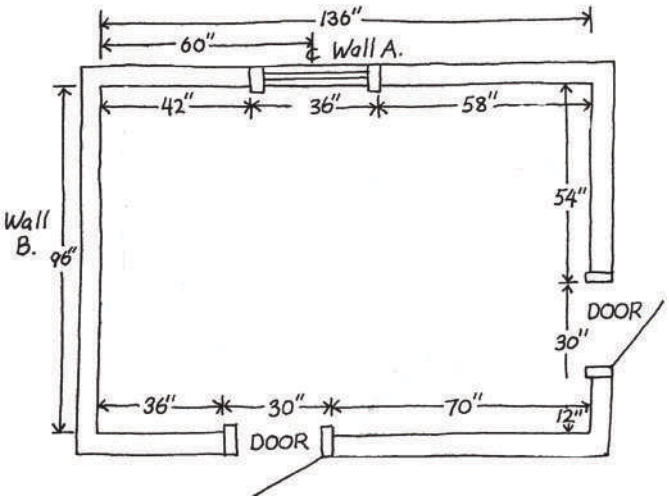

Straight Run

MEASURING YOUR SPACE

When you go to remodel your kitchen, the first thing your designer will need is a measurement of your space. From there, they can begin to design a basic layout and put together a project estimate. Don't worry, your designer or project manager will come to your house to confirm measurements prior to ordering your kitchen.

Not sure what to measure? Check out our Measuring Guide & Appliance Information Sheet for easy, step-by-step instructions.

DESIGNER TIP: TAKE PHOTOS OF YOUR CURRENT KITCHEN

Photos will help your kitchen designer understand your current layout, and provide clarity on any unique areas or points of concern. It is also great to have "before" photos to realize the extent of your kitchen transformation.

SELECTING YOUR APPLIANCES

Whether you are reusing current appliances or buying brand new, your appliances are one of the first things you should shop for your new kitchen. Why, you ask?

1. Your kitchen designer will want to know the exact dimensions of each appliance, so that they can account for it in their design.

2. Extended lead times and backorders could delay your remodel if your kitchen appliances are not ordered in time.

DID YOU KNOW?

Many of Norfolk's kitchen & bath designers are experts in their field, with 10-20 years of design experience.

STEP 1 STEP 2 STEP 3 STEP 4 STEP 5

CHOOSE YOUR Cabinets

There is no standard “one size fits all” approach when it comes to your cabinetry. From the box construction, to the door style, to the color and finish of the cabinet, there are hundreds of variations of every cabinet sold at Norfolk Kitchen & Bath. Even “white shaker cabinets” have at least 20-30 variations! That is why our design process starts with an in-showroom consultation, where one of our expert designers meets with your individually to go over all of your potential options. Norfolk Kitchen & Bath has a wide variety of products available for any style or budget.

So, how do you go about choosing your cabinets from all those options? At Norfolk, we have divided our many cabinet manufacturing partners into three categories: Classic, Premier & Designer. Each of our cabinet lines are separated into a category based on a variety of factors:

1. CONSTRUCTION OPTIONS
   Not all cabinets are built the same. While Norfolk is proud to offer high-quality products from top to bottom, some construction features are only available in certain categories.

2. DOOR STYLES, WOODS & FINISHES
   Looking for a classic white cabinet, or maybe a contemporary high-gloss? Our Designer cabinets can even be custom matched to your favorite Shermin-Williams paint color.

3. MODIFICATIONS & ACCESSORIES
   From limited modifications to custom cabinet size options and upgrades.

4. WARRANTY
   As little as 1 year, to a limited lifetime guarantee.

5. PRICE ($ - $$$$)
   Norfolk is proud to offer cabinets for any budget.

Designer INSET KITCHEN CABINETRY

Offering a high-end, classy appearance, inset cabinetry is constructed with the doors and drawer headers fit within the cabinet frame. Inset is popular because of its "built-in" look, and requires a high level of precision and craftsmanship to manufacture and install. Check out some of our inset kitchen displays at any Norfolk Kitchen & Bath showroom.

- ☑ Gives a custom, "built-in" look
- ☑ Reduced seams between cabinets
- ☑ Design flexibility

Designer CONTEMPORARY FULL-ACCESS CABINETRY

Also known as European or frameless, full-access cabinetry is constructed without the use of a cabinet face frame. This construction is popular in many contemporary kitchens because of its simple, clean lines. Full-access cabinets also offer more storage space within the cabinet, due to the lack of a face frame.

- ☑ Offers more base cabinet/drawer storage
- ☑ Offers a modern or transitional look
- ☑ Can change cabinet interior color

POPULAR COUNTERTOP MATERIALS

NATURAL STONE

A product of the earth, natural stone includes granite, marble, quartzite, onyx, soapstone and others. Each piece is beautifully unique, mined from all over the world - one of the characteristics that makes natural stone so desirable. Natural stone also offers varying levels of durability and can be used in many applications, from kitchen countertops to wall cladding.

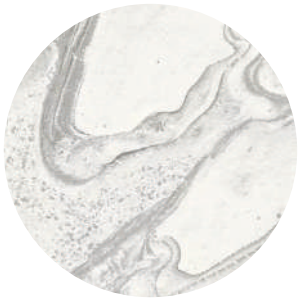

QUARTZ

Quartz countertops are an engineered product & one of the top surface materials on the market. With high durability, low maintenance and a wide array of colors & designs to choose from, it's easy to understand why. Quartz countertops are scratch, stain, and impact resistant. Many quartz manufacturers carry a minimum 10 year warranty for their products.

QUARTZITE

Not to be mistaken with quartz, quartzite is a natural stone product, similar to granite. Under intense heat & pressure, sandstone fuses with quartz crystals, which forms quartzite. Its color is typically white or light gray in appearance, often resembling marble or granite. Quartzite is a naturally hard surface, but can be susceptible to stains & requires sealing.

SINTERED STONE

Sintered stone is a stone-based surface material that mimics the look of natural stones, tiles, wood, and other smooth or textured surfaces. It's weatherproof, waterproof, scratchproof and extremely durable. Sintered stone is also environmentally friendly, made of 100% natural materials. Popular brands include Dekton, Lapitech & others.

STONE APPLICATIONS

Your stone can be more than just your countertop - it can be the focal point for your whole design.
